

"The Magic of Money"

An amazing thing has happened to money throughout the years since the beginning of it's creation without too many people realizing what that is.

Although from it's inception hundreds of years ago money was either made from or then represented a commodity such as gold - copper - silver - nickel etc. that was limited in nature - and then moved to being simply the printed artwork on a piece of paper - it has now evolved into a simple value transferred over the Internet - or merely a unit of value created when a person or persons creates a product or service - and so unlike the money of yesteryear which was limited either to the amount of the commodity used (such as the gold) or to the amount of paper printed - money is now unlimited in nature thus putting us into the -----
